Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 16 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Dry at first, before turning wet towards the weekend.

Today:
Any overnight fog will soon clear to leave a mostly dry and bright day with some long-lived sunny spells, though the occasional isolated light shower is possible. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying dry overnight, as cloud begins to move in from the west. Some clear spells are still seen in the east however, and the odd fog patch may form here. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Friday:
Dry with warm sunny spells at first, perhaps lasting for much of the day. Thicker cloud with some rain will arrive in the west by the evening. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Cloudy with outbreaks of showers Saturday and Sunday, though the odd sunny spell is still possible. Similar Monday, though possibly drier with some sunshine in the north.
